Martins in the Delavan House fire, but the real facts have just come to light. At the time the alarm of fire was given the Bradlay-Martins were dining in one of the private rooms. Mrs. Martin offered $500 reward to any one who would go to her room and bring from it her property and jewels. One of the bell boys made his way to the apartment and packed the property into the trunks and let them down outside. The young man overlooked a stocking which contained more than a score of diamonds valued at about $12,000. He returned to the room, however, and secured the unique jewel case. He received the $500.

Mr. Holman has received more encouragement on his proposed work than any other of the numerous budding authors who have developed since the November election. He does not conceal the fact election. He does not conceal the fact that if he writes a book it will be for the purpose of making money. Th'rty years in the House has not served to enrich Mr. Holmam financially. He has drawn $150,000 from the national treasury in congressional salary, and is yet, comparthe national treasury in atively, a poor man. While a great economist in the matter of public ex-penditures, Mr. Holman does not carry penditures, Mr. Holman does not carry out the policy in his private life, and admits that he does not know how to save money. He dresses plainly and lunches at a pie counter each day, but he has never known the luxury of a residence in Washington, and lives very plainly in a modest little house owned by his daughter in this city. Mr. Holman owns a farm at Aurora, and will have to look to agriculture and literature, along with his law practice, which has been long neglected on account of his service in the House, to provide him with a living in se, to provide him with a living in remind you that this interview is not an official one, and that, instead of receiving you in any representative capacity. I meet you as individuals who have traveled a long distance for the purpose of laying a certain matter before me.

Mr. McNagny is one of the most thorough book worms in the Indiana delegation, and has read more books covering a greater variety of subjects, perhaps, than any other member of the delegation. The subject of his projected book will, in all probability, be, "A Congressman's Letters to His Son," and will be a book descriptive of Washington life and scenes intended to enlighten the youth of the land. It fact, he says, the royalists did not see him at all, as he was sick in bed at the time fixed for the interview. They did, however, write him a note, in which they said: "We desire to ask His Excellency whether there is any hope for his doing anything for the restoration of the constitutional government of the Hawaiian Islands."

"You ask me if there is any hope of my doing anything for the restoration of the constitutional government of the Hawaiian islands. I suppose that this question is largely prompted by the fact that soon after the overturning of the government of the Queen, I investigated that transaction and was satisfied that there had been such an unjustifable interference of sid of that movement, on the part of the representatives of the Government of the Punited States in its diplomatic and naval service, as to call for correction, not only to rectify what Leemed to be a wrong done to others, but also through that rectification to ward off what appeared to be danger to American honor and probity. Fully appreciating the constitutional limitations of my executive power, and by no means unmindful of the findrances that might arise, I undertook the task Having failed in my plans, I committed the entire subject to the Congress of the United States, which has abundant power and authority in the premises. The executive branch of the Government was, thereby, discharged from further daty and responsibility in the matter unless moved thereto by congressional command. The Congress has, both by its action and omission to act, signified that nothing need be done touching American interference with the overthrow of the government of the Queen.

"Quite lately a government has been established in Hawaii, which is in full force and operation in all parts of the islands. It is maintaining its authority and discharging all ordinary governmental functions. Upon general principles, and not losing sight of the special circumstances surrounding this case, the new government is clearly entitled to our recognition without regard to any of the incidents which accompanied or preceded its inauguration.
"This recognition and the attitude of the Congress concerning Hawailan afairs, of course, led to an absolute denial of the least present or future ald or encouragement on my part to an effort to restore any government heretofore existing in the Hawaiian islands."

A FLOOD IS THREATENED.

THE OHIO RIVER AND OTHER STREAMS RISING RAPIDLY.

Sixteen Foot Rise In Fifteen Hours at Cincinnati-Much Damage In Southern Indiana-The Railroads Have Washouts.

Cincinnati, January 7 .- The Ohio river has been rising rapidly since yesterday afternoon, and there is serious apprehension of another great flood. The rise at this point was six feet in as many hours last night. Reports from up the river in the vicinity of Pittsburg indicate high and rising water there. It has rained almost i neessantly in the vicinity since Saturday night. At Johnstown, Pa., the river is rising with a rush, and much uneasiness is felt.

The unprecedented rainfall here of 3.47 The unprecedented rainfall here of 3.47 inches in the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., and of 3.8i inches in the past forty-eight hours, has had the effect to carry off the ice from the river without any damage whatever. Rivermen say they never saw a safer break-up. With the heavy rise reported from the headwaters, and from nearly all the tributaries below, the river here is expected to go above forty feet, but no disastrous flood is expected, especially as the temperature is already falling and the rainfall seems to be ended. At noon the river was twenty-two feet, rising five inches an hour.

The Ohio river at 10 a. m. had reached twenty-one feet, a rise of sixteen feet in fifteen hours, and still rising. The rainfall for twenty-four hours was 3.47 inches.

A dispatch from Pittsburg says: There is a probability of a flood at this point if the rivers continue to rise for any length of time at the present rate. There is a stage of seventeen feet in the Monongahela, and it is rising at the rate of eighteen inches an hour. A large amount of ice is coming out of the Youghlogheny, and at McKeesport the little steamer Tillie was sunk, causing a loss of about $2,500. The ice is also coming down the Allegheny, and the cofferdam at Herris Island is in danger of serious damage. The Government is building a navigation The Government is building a navigation lock at this point, and, should the cofferdam be broken, it will not only cause considerable damage, but will also retard the work on the lock. #### OMITTED FROM TAXATION

AFFIDAVIT FILED WITH THE AU-DITOR BY O. D. WEAVER.

He Says That Property of Coffin, Greenstreet & Fletcher, Coffin Fletcher & Co., and Members of the Firm Escaped.

About a year ago Charles M. Tyler, formerly a deputy in the township assessor's office, came before the county oners with a proposal to make known a large amount of property that had been secreted from the assessor and on which taxes delinquent for a dozen years were due. He offered to give this information to the board for a certain per cent. of the amount of taxes recovered. Mr. Tyler would not be more specific, and the commissioners made no contract with him. His proposal remained on file, but time passed on and it was forgotten. Recently an affidavit was filed with County Auditor Taggart which was a revelation of the facts upon which it is alleged Tyler based his proposal. The affidavit was made by Ozro D. Weaver, a broker on the Board of Trade, and was affidavit was made by Ozro D. Weaver, a broker on the Board of Trade, and was as follows:

Ozro D. Weaver, being duly sworn, according to law, says: "From the years 1881 to 1890, inclusive, there was omitted from taxation by the firm of Coffin, Greenstreet & Fletcher, property belonging to them, in Marion county, the amount of $2,107,000, as shown by statement hereto attached and marked exhibit 'A."

"That for the years 1891, 1892 and 1893 there was omitted by h firm of Coffin, Fletcher & Co., property belonging to them in Marion county, State of Indiana, of the amount of $510,500, as shown by the statement hereto attached and marked Exhibit 'B."

"That there was omitted from taxation for the years 1881 to 1893, inclusive, of the property belonging to James L. Fletcher, of Marion county, State of Indiana, now deceased, the amount of $342,000, as shown by statement hereto attached and market Exhibit "C."

That there was omitted from taxation for the years 1881 to 1893, inclusive, the property of L. W. Fletcher, in Marion county, State of Indiana, of the amount of $1,200,000, as shown, etc.

That there was omitted from taxation for the years 1881 to 1893, inclusive, the property belonging to Albert W. Fletcher in Marion county, State of Indiana, the amount of $150,000, as shown, etc.

the firm changed $3,343.82 is alleged to be due. The amount due from J. L. Fletcher is alleged to be from credits, on the boks of the firm, which were not returned for taxation. These credits, it is alleged, range from $12,000 to $45000 a year. The credits of L. W. Fletcher are similar. The schedule with reference to A. W. Fletcher are similar. The schedule with reference to A. W. Fletcher are similar. A. W. Coffin, to whom it is supposed to refer by the county auditor, as Mr. Coffin is a member of the firm. Coffin, Fletcher & Co., are represented by D. W. Howe, and the widow of James L. Fletcher by Harding & Hovey.

The attorneys for the persons interested met with the county auditor this afternoon to present evidence in the matter. An affdavit was presented to the auditor allegaing conspiracy on the part of Ozro D. Weaver, Charles M. Tyler and J. H. Greenstreet, a former member of the firm, to injure the firm. Each of the allegations made by Weaver in his affidavit was specifically denied.

In regard to the affair Mr. Hovey said to the auditor: "The whole thing is the result of malice. Mr. Greenstreet left the firm some time ago. There is not a word of truth about the charges made. And the strangest thing about the whole business is that the returns which are questioned by the affidavit of Weaver, were made out and sworn to by J. H. Greenstreet except in one case."

It appears that the county commissioners have had a contract with C. M. Tyler agreeing to pay him 25 per cent. of all taxes collected through exclusive information furnished by him. County Assessor Baker says he had known of the present cases, but not prior to July 3, the date of the affidavit filed.

The meeting of the Commercial Travelers' Rpublican Club Saturday night developed a political sensation. James E. Watson, Congressman elect, from the Fourth district, had been invited to speak. While his speech was typical and was applauded, it was lost sight of immediately when Senator W. S. Haggard, of Tippecanoe county, having been called upon, arose and delivered the following speech: "The Republican party is the only party that can give the State honest and able manageemnt of its affairs. I spurn and spit upon that plank of the platform upon which I was elected which pledges me to support a law for non-partisan control of our benevolent institutions. There is mothing of virtue in non-partisan control of these institutions. The Democrats see the advantage in it to them and when they hear anything about turning them out fhey exclaim with anxious wonder. (Why, you are not going back on the platfom, are you?"

"When your political enemies want you to do a thing, it is time to do the other thing. How did they treat us during the twenty-two years they have controlled the institutions? When we asked for representation on the boards of control they laughed at us. It might have been policy to stand for nonpartisan control, it might have made a few votes, but I believe the people of the State, in giving us 45,000 more votes than for the Democratic party, meant that it should be swept from all departments of the State. It is our duty to step in and take charge of these institutions. (Great applause.)

"I have evidence in my pocket that the present appointing power can not be trusted to make any appointments that are not for his own benefit or for that of his party. This thing of having one member of the opposite party in these boards is a failure. It emasculates the third member and makes a trimmer of him. The reason for having this third member of opposite party is to have a check upon the other two, but did anybody ever hear of this member checking anything? They are altogether bad when they are bad."

Judge Baker, of the Federal Circuit Court, was at the banquet Saturday night, and heard the Tippecanoe Senator and the Congressman-elect. He was called upon for remarks, and, premising by saying that it would be indecorous for him to make a political speech, called attention to the responsibilities of legislators. The state of unrest, the need of better distribution of the earnings and products of labor, are problems far greater than the tariff, finance, or partisan affairs, he said.

greater than the tariff, finance, or partisan affairs, he said.

Senator Haggard said to-day that he would elucidate his views at the Senatorial caucus to-night. "I have not been criticised by any one except the Journal," said he. "There are a few conservative members here who do not seem to agree with me. I shall explain my position fully to the Republican Senators, and shall let the subject drop there. It is not my intention to introduce any resolution or any bill embodying my views. I shall leave that for others to do, if they see fit. I am in favor of non-partisan control whenever the Democratic party will come forward and declare that it is also in favor of such control."

During her illness a room beneath her apartments was fixed up for a restaurant and confectionery. The noises an noyed the sick woman and her relatives asked the police to stop them. Friday night the woman died. Her relatives said that the noises continued, and Saturday night the officers went to the place and asked John Buck and a Mrs. Wilson, who were at work in the room, to cease till the dead woman up-stairs was buried. The officers reported that Buck was willing to obey the order, but that Mrs. Wilson became very indignant and refused to stop her work. The policemen told her that if she did not stop they would arrest her for disturbing the peace. She stopped, but threatens to take the matter up with the Police Board.

NEW LIQUOR LAW. City and County Officials at Work

On One-Its Provisions. Several officials of the city and county, neluding a number of well-known attorneys, have been busy for some time, pre paring a new liquor law, which they hope brief compilation of the liquor law of nearly all the States that have them. It occupies forty pages of typewritten mat-ter, and is in thirty-eight sections. It prohibits billiard, pool or card tables where liquors are sold, and is designed to abolish wine-rooms.

In addition to the present legal holidays, Washington's birthday, Memoria In addition to the present legal holidays, Washington's birthday, Memorial Day and Thanksgiving are made legal holidays, so far as the sale of liquor is concerned. The saloons must be opened for inspection, and on all legal holidays the curtains and screens must be removed so the officers can see entirely through the room from the outside. The law provides a penalty for a person going into a saloon on these days.

The county commissioners are promibited from granting a license to any person who has been punished for a violation of the law within a year, and the commissioners are required to investigate the moral character of all applicants.

vestigate the moral character of all applicants.

No liquor shall be sold in a resort or places where there are immoral practices. Each person securing a license must file a bond with two sureties, who make oath that they are in no way connected with the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Selling to drunken men or persons addicted to the use of liquor is strictly prohibited. The penalties for the violation of any of these provisions range from $10 to $100 fine and thirty days to six months imprisonment in the county jail. The license fee is not increased, and the hour of closing saloons remains at 11 o clock.

Candidates For Places.

The candidates for positions at the disposal of the Legislature outnumber at the hotel the Representatives and Senators. About twenty-five candidates for State Librarian are mixing with the nembers. No women candidates for the office have appeared, and members say that the men and women who bother them least, all things considered, stand the best chance before the caucus. The few members here are already tired of the pulling and hauling by the office-seekers.

members here are already tree of the pulling and hauling by the office-seekers. The sentiment at this time seems to be that the librarianship shall go to a woman. Robert A. Brown, of Franklin, has met with practically no opposition in his ree for clerk of the House.

About half the Senators have arrived. They will hold a caucus at the Denison House to-night. Only a few Democratic members of either house have got here. At the State House all is in readiness for the convening of the Legislature. Custodian Griffin has arranged on the desk of each member a small library of public documents, reports and the like. When he finishes the collection there will be about twenty volumes on each member's desk.

Legislative Reception. Senator Wishard and Miss Wishard have issued an invitation for a reception to the Senate and House of Representa-tives at their home, No. 264 Capitol ave-nue, north, on next Monday evening.

THE LEOPARD AND THE COAT. "Shooting Affair" at English's This

Afternoon-A Tug of War. The grown men and small boys contended for choice standing room at the stage entrance to English's Theater to-day. Hagenbeck's animals were unloading. The spectators who were admitted saw a "shooting affair." As Heinrich Mehrman, representing Mr. Hagenbeck, and "personally known," so to speak, to all of the animals, passed a leopard's cage; the snimal selsed his overcoat and tried to drag him through the bars, J. L. Kelly, trainor for John L. Sullivan, selzed Mr. Mehrman, and with a "half Nelson hold" tugged mightily in one direction, while his spotted majesty pulled in the other direction. Between the two Mr. Mehrman was drawn out pretty fine. Seeing that this tug of war was going against him, Mehrman drew a pistol and fired six blank cartridges direct in the leopard's face. An attendant used a club, but neither was successful in forcing the leopard to take his claws out of the overcoat. It was necessary to cut the garment to release the owner.

WINDOW GLASS MANUFACTURERS. Men With Plants In the Gas Belt Meet Here.

Representatives of the window glass manufacturers in the Indiana natural gas field met at the Bates House to-day to discuss subjects pertaining to their business. Among the men who attended the meeting were: J. G. Sayre, T. C. Hawkins, H. Estep, Marion; H. W. Heer, J. A. Van Dewenter, Alexandria; John F. Rodffer, Elwood; Lee S. Barrett, Mansfield, O.; T. H. SUIT AGAINST PEIRCE ET AL.

CRAWFORD COMES HERE TO SERVE LEGAL NOTICE.

The Result May Have An Influence On the L., D. & W. Sale-Beatty Estate Case-"Speak Easy" Ordinance-Court Cases.

Harry Crawford, of Chicago, came to the city to-day to serve a legal notice on Robert B. F. Peirce, trustee and general manager of the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western railway. For an Eastern owner of the railway's securities, Crawford has filed a suit in the Edgar county (Illinois) court against Peirce, Benjamin A. Sands and others. Crawford says that if the suit is successful, it will probably prevent the proposed sale of the Indianapolis, Decatur is successful, it will probably prevent the proposed sale of the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western to the Lake Erie & Western. The suit is brought by Elijah T. Craft, a railway investor of Bayonne, N. J., who owns harge amounts of the securities of the Indianapolis; Decatur & Western. Craft claims that, although the trustees of the railroad may have secured the right by decree in Indiana to sell, they have no right whatever to sell that part of the railway running through Illinois, and known legally as the Decatur & Eastern. He avers that there is no power of sale in a mortgage in Illinois, and quotes a section of the Illinois statute, which provides that a sale in mortgage can hot be made except it take place actually in the county in which the property is situated.

The notice of the suit in the Edgar county (Illinois) Court is a long one. It states that the railroad issued three mortgages January 2, 1888, naming the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New York, and Noble C. Butler as trustees, to whom Craft claims the entire line was transferred. The three mortgages were recorded in Edgar, Douglass, Platt and Macon counties, Illinois. The complainant asserts that they are in every sense valid.

Harry Crawford was asked what will be the effect of the suit in case it is won by Craft. He said that it would prevent the sale of the road to the Lake Erie & Western, arranged for March 1, unless Craft's claims are met. "Instead of buying a railroad," he said, "the Lake Erie & Western arranged for March 1, unless Craft's claims are finet. "Instead of buying a railroad," he said, "the Lake Erie & Western arranged for March 1, unless Craft's claims are finet. "Instead of buying a railroad," he said, "the Lake Brie & Western will find that it has bought a law suit."

R. D. F. Peirce was in Chicago to-day; and Crawford was unable to serve the papers. Superintendent George H. Graves had not seen Mr. Crawford and his notice, and knew nothing of the suit. It is said that the proposed saie of the Indianapolis, Decatur & Wester

CORONER'S CASES.

Report of the Death of Henry S. Blue-Other Deaths.

The following anonymous letter was eccived by Coronor Castor in Saturday night:

"Dear Sir—On the 4th day of November on the Huggans pike, southeast of city, and three miles from court-house, an old man, near sixty years old, named Henry S. Blue, living temporarily with one Washington Furgason, died under suspicious circumstances, and was buried at Beech Grove. Hardly any one knew it till after he was buried. Don't think any doctor attended him before he died. It was very sudden. Foul play is claimed. was very sudden. Foul play is claimed.
This is no foolish report, but straight goods. It will pay to investigate this

The coroner wrote to the neighborhood described for further information, and to see if the facts as stated in the letter could be proved. Yesterday afternoon Dr. Bigger, deputy coroner, notified the coroner's office by telephone that he had received information substantiating the facts as set forth in the letter.

Coroner Castor saw Dr. Bigger this morning, and from him learned that the man was injured by the street cars some time ago. He sent his constable down to the place mentioned in the letter, but he thinks that the case is not one in which an investigation is necessary.

ProKably Died From the Shock. Mrs. Haines, age sixty-five, died in the house of her son-in-law, Richard Matchett, in Excelsior avenue, flear Matchett, in Excelsior avenue, fiear Brookside, yesterday afternoon. The husband of Mrs. Haines was down town. husband of Mrs. Haines was down town. He is an old man, and he slipped on the icy pavement on Chifford avenue, severely injuring himself. He had to be taken home in an ambulance. Mrs. Haines saw the ambulance coming to the house, and she came out to see what was the matter. She saw the ambulance opened and the body of her husband on the stretcher. She thought that he was dead, and the shock was too much for her. She fell over in a swoon. he was dead, and the shock was too much for her. She fell over in a swoon. Her husband was carried into the house, and the attentions of the doctors were turned to her. She recovered consciousness in a few minutes, but soon swooned again. She grew weaker rapidly and died in a short time. The cornorr was of the opinion that she died from the shock.

Mr. Haines was not much injured by his fall. His hip was bruised and he was unable to walk. The shock of his wife's death has been a severe blow to him, and he is ill in bed. The physicians think that he will recover.

Found Dead In Bed.

Coroner Castor went to Acton yester day to investigate the death of William day to investigate the death of William Hayes, who was found dead in bed. Hayes lived near Southport. On Saturday he went to visit Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, near Acton. He was in apparently good health, and went to bed at the same time as the family. In the morning he was found the was forty than same time as the family. In the morning he was dead. He was forty-three years old and leaves a family. Hayes had suffered from a tumor for several years, and Dr. Castor, after an examination, concluded that it caused his death. He did not think an autopsy necessary.

Fell In the Street. Frank Earnshaw, age fifty, fell to the sidewalk in front of 29 West Ohio street yesterday afternoon. Passers-by picked him up and carried him into an office near by, where he died in a few minutes, without having recovered consciousness. The coroner viewed the body. He learned that Earnshaw had been troubled with heart disease for many years, and returned a verdict of heart failure. Earnshaw boarded at 139 South Illinois street. His brother, Joseph Earnshaw, lives at 38 Huron street. near by, where he died in a few minutes, Actions of a Mysterious Stranger at St. Louis.

St. Louis, January 7.—As the Air line train came to a stop at the Union Station last night, a hatless and wild-eyed man sprang to the platform into the arms of a policeman, shouting "Save me, lock me up, hide me." At the prace station he gave his name as George P. Spragg, and claimed to be mayor of Chester, III. On his person were found a check on a Hot Springs (Ark.) bank for $500, a ticket to Hot Springs and $50 in money. He was taken to the city hospital and became quiet under sedative treatment, but refused to tell any story. During his ravings he accused himself of many crimes. THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS AGAIN. Senator Haggard, of Tippecanoe, made an address on Saturday night before the Republican commercial travelers, in which he gave his notion of the proper way to deal with the benevolent institutions. We believe that he is right on the main question when he insists that civil service reform rules shall be applied to substantially all the employes of these institutions, who, as Mr. Haggard well says. "are merely the servants of the boards of trustees." But before discussing the Senator's scheme it is perhaps worth while to note that in this speech he proclaims himself a mugwump of the mugwumps. This is not meant as a taunt or sneer, for we have a high regard and a great respect for the mugwumps, but simply as a statement of fact. It is true that the speech now under consideration opens with this fervent and unreasoning eulogy of the Republican party: The Republican party is the only party that can give the State honest and able management of its affairs.

That sounds sufficiently loyal, and it must, one would think, follow from this theory that the only party which could "give the State honest and able management of its affairs," would be just the party which would know infallibly how to go about this very desirable piece of case at all, for in the very next sentence Senator Haggard savs: I spurn and spit upon that plank of the platform upon which I was elected which pledges me to support a law for non-partisan control of our benevolent

So we have the gentleman spurning and spitting upon the combined wisdom of "the only party which can give the State honest and able management of its affairs," and yet which can not formulate a decent plan for the government of our benevolent institutions,

Leaving Mr. Haggard to reconcile this charming bit of inconsistency as best he can, we are glad to see that he claims the right of dissenting from "the only party which can give the State honest and able management of its affairs," even to the extent of spurning and spitting upon its platform. Here is mugwumpery with a vengeance. The only offense of the mugwump is that he insists upon using his individual judgment in political matters and upon following it in preference to the judgment of any political organization. And this is Mr. Haggard's offense. The platform which he in part repudiates is the platform of the party whose candidate he was - the platform upon which, as he admits, he was elected. We think it must be confessed that Mr. Haggard is a very poor party man.

As for the Senator's program, It is possible to admit all the evils of the nonpartisan board theory and still to hold that a non-partisan board appointed by the Governor is much to be preferred to none of the abhorrent influences which ild surround the latter. And if the subordinates are to be appointed and retained without any regard whatever to their political opinions, as Mr. Haggard thinks they should be, it would not seem to be wise to place them under the ontrol of a board chosen on the spoils plan and animated by those very influences which it is proposed to eliminate from the institutions themselves. Clearly there is no Republican or Democratic way of doing this important work. The positions in question are in no sense political. To treat them as political spoil is almost certain to bring bad business management. The whole administration of the benevolent institutions should be as far removed as possible from the sphere of politics. The great objection to the non-partisan board theory is that it does not always result in non-partisan control. But the result can be reached more nearly in this way than by making the boards avowedly political. It can be reached absolutely by applying the merit system, which Mr. Haggard favors, to the boards of trustees as well as to their subordinates. This is what should be done. There is no reason whatever why they should be changed with every change in the politics of the State government. Rather, there is every reason why they should not be changed. But if the Legislature can not bring itself to this point, it should at least give us nonpartisan boards and a corps of subordinates chosen for their fitness as determined by competitive examination and a probationary test. The people have a right to expect at least so much from "the only party that can give the State honest and able management of its affairs." There can be no "honest and able management" of the benevolent institutions upon the spoils plan for any length of time. It has been thoroughly tried in Inliana. The experiment was a dismal failure, as those who remember the Harrison-Gapen-John E. Sullivan administration, know very well. It would be the hight of folly for the Republican party not to profit by the teaching of our recent his-

THE LIQUOR LAW.

It seems to us pretty well demonstrated that it in practically impossible to enforce strict obedience to the present liquor law. The present city administration has earnestly, honestly and persistently endeavored to enforce the law. It has come pretty nearly doing it. We think it will be generally conceded that it has met all exectations except possibly that of fanaties. Certainly the administration's efforts have met the expectation of reasonable men. And yet, we say, it seems pear, as pretty well demonstrated that it is practically impossible to enforce the present spect. liquor law. The bo mittee of the Good Citizenship organization, which went around previous to the recent election, showed that violation of the law was wide-spread and constant. The arrest of prominent saloon-keeper yesterday morning demonstrates that in his place, at least, violation of the law was going on. We do not expect too much, but it true, we suppose that such law violation is to be looked on like other law violation, namely, as a constant quantity, some thing to be expected. So be it. All the reason the more, therefore, that the officers of the law should be allowed fair play in discharging their duty.

The present law in most, if not almost all of its features, seems framed for the protection of anyone who wants to break it. The coming Legislature ought to amend this law. It ought to allow the larger cities to charge at least as much as $500 city license. It ought to permit such cities to extend the hours of open saloons to midnight. It ought to compel saloons to be closed at the forbidden hours, if such a clause would be constitutional. It ought to make mandatory as part of the penalty for violation of the law a forfeiture of the license, and a disqualification of the person so convicted from engaging in the business. It ought to include in its operation every dealer who handles liquor, compelling druggists, and grocers who sell liquor to take out licenses. Is there anything unfair in such a law The Liquor League professes to desire obedience to the law and to aid in putting the traffic in responsible hands. Why should it not advocate such a law as is here outlined? The extension of the hours the increase of the license, the disqualification of the violator from engaging in the business, the compulsion on druggists and grocers to take out licenses, would all tend to put the liquor traffic in responsible hands, and to give its legitimate pursuit "room and verge enough," and it would do away with the expense on the one hand and the hypocrisy on the other that attends the present law. If Judge Parker, of New York, is correctly reported, he is the author or inventor of a wholly new theory of constitutional interpretation. He decides that the new anti-pass provision of the work. But this does not seem to be the New York constitution is to be interpreted in the light of existing statutes. We have always supposed that statutes were to be interpreted in the light of

Too much politics and too little patlotism would describe the congressional situation.

The prevailing opinion in New York is that practically the same system of police management as now obtains will be continued. That is to say the supreme authority will still be lodged in a bi-partisan board, consisting of four men, equally divided between the two great parties. It is probable, however, that more power than at present will be lodged in the hands of the superintendent. It may be also that the mayor will have the power to remove the police commissioners at will. No measure has formulated as yet, however, it is known that Platt fabut the bi-partisan board, and oors it is clear that Platt is in control of the Legislature. It is widely believed, also, that Superintendent Byrnes will be continued in authority. New Yorkers pretty generally have faith in the superntendent, in spite of the revelations of the Lexow investigation, and in spite of Dr. Parkhurst's bitter denunciation. believe that Byrnes is personally honest, and that he is a most capable and efficient officer. They think that he has heretofore been hampered in carrying out his ideas by the police commissioners. They do not believe that any evidence was produced before the Lexow committee which proved that he was involved in the general corruption of the police force. If he has practically full authority, they a partisan board elected by the Legisla- think he will be the best man to re-orture. Certainly the former is subject to ganize the force. The police problem in New York is certainly a most serious one. We fear that with Platt determined to make politics a large factor in its solution only half-way reform will be the result. The Journal neatly points out that while Senator Haggard declaims against non-partisan boards for the benevolent institutions, he himself has a bill for the creation of a Soldiers' Home which provides for a non-partisan board of

It is a great pity something can not be ione for wife-beaters that will hurt them worse than all the penalty the law now allows. As a matter of fact, the whipping post ought to exist for wife-beaters. man who beats a woman should be tied to a post and be whipped thoroughly. Some day the legislators will become en lightened enough to pass a law to this effect.

The cost of caring for the new Manual Training School building will strike the average citizen as rather high. There is a custodian at $900 yearly, a nightwatchman at $600 yearly, and three janitors at $450 each yearly. The salary of the custodian will certainly appear to business men unnecessarily high; and why he should need three assistants properly to take care of a building of forty-two rooms is not clear. The Commercial Club building is admirably cared for, at an expense for janitor service of less than $1,600 yearly. Whereas, the expense for similar service for the Manual Training School will amount to $2,250. The contrast is all the more striking when one remembers that the Commercial Club building is in use the whole year through, and all day long, while the school build-ing will be used for a scant ten months, five days a week, and only six hours a

Our City Board of Health ought not to be so dilatory in securing the anti-toxine treatment for diphtheria. It is somewhat of a reproach to us that a town of this size should thus far have taken no steps in that direction. President Wildman, of the Board of Public Works, says complaints of bad streets have been referred, without instructions, to the street commissioner. It was his duty to investigate, and if the work of repair should have fallen on a contractor, he should have reported accordingly. This throws the responsi-bility for having made repairs which it was the duty of contractors to make, on Mr. Fisher. We wonder if even the ad-ministration has any further doubts as to the fitness of Mr. Fisher for retire-

Under the former administration we heard no end of ridicule and complaint about the inspectorships because of their extravagance. Both Mr. Jones and Miss George claimed the same piece of land, and were prepared to fight for it until doomsday, when Jones fell ill. Miss George, woman-like, went over to his cabin to look him up and stayed to nurse him back to health. By this time they had decided to divide the claim between them, but it was not long before they solved the problem in a better way and resorted to matrimony instead of the land offlice.

The Department of Agriculture is advertising for an ornithologist who is expected to pass an examination in French, German, camera lucida, drawing, microscopic work, geography and practical ornithology, and for the use of all these accomplishments for eight hours a day the Government of the United States will pay him a salary of $660 per annum. Among other duties he will be expected to identify and chemically analyze seeds and other substances found in the stomachs of birds. At the same time ordinary messengers, colored and white, are paid $720 and $400 a year, type-writers and copyists $1,000, stenographers $1,200 and so on. This position has been open for some time, and there is no immediate probability of its being filled at that salary.—Washington correspondens Chicago Record.

GREENWOOD LINE GRANT

WHAT WILL BE REQUIRED OF THE COMPANY.

> Must Pay Expenses Incurred In Making Changes In the Road-History of the Enterprise-What Mr. Johnson Says.

The county commissioners have given their decision in the Greenwood electric line complications. They decide that the electric company must pay the telegraph and telephone companies for whatever legitimate expense is caused in removal of poles, etc., to make room for the railway line. The electric company must also pay for surveys of the Madison road between the city and Greenwood, and any expense growing out of the removal of fences of farmers who have removar of rences of farmers who have encroached on the public domain. The roadway is to be restored to its full width of fifty feet. The electric com-pany is authorized to use ten feet off of the west side. The company has not yet signified its acceptance of the terms.

THE GREENWOOD LINE.

Origin and History of the Project-What It Is Proposed To Do.

The present intention of the Indiana olis, Greenwood & Franklin Railroad ompany is to build an electric line befween Indianapolis and Greenwood, a distance of nine mils. The enterprise is several years old. Nearly three years ago the corporation that asked for a franchise failed to get it. The present ompany was incorporated about three nonths ago, and is largely a revival of the old one. It incorporated the general railroad law, in order to re-ceive a subsidy from Pleasant township, Johnson county. It had to appear that the corporation was authorized by this general railroad law before the commissioners could order an election to vote on the question of granting a subsidy. Such incorporation was shown to the commis-sioners of Johnson county, and the elecion was held. There was a majority of 3 in favor of the grant. At the election os in favor of the grant. At the election 25 votes were cast, which was within fifteen of the number polled at the State election in November. Last November the representatives of the company told the county commishast November the representatives of the company told the county commis-tioners that they wanted to discuss a ranchise and diid not want to ask it pub-icly in order to avoid publication of the act in the newspapers. The commissionfranchise and did not want to ask it publicly in order to avoid publication of the fact in the newspapers. The commissioners accordingly met with the company's representatives at the office of the county attorney and heard their request. The board was then composed of Commissioners Hunter, Stout and Reinecke. They refused to grant a franchise. The company found that Mr. Hunter favored a grant with certain conditions, and decided to await the change in the board, by which Mr. Stout retired and Mr. Harding came in. After the board changed, the request was again made. Mr. Harding and Mr. Hunter were favorable to the grant, and after several meetings at the county attorney's office, the corporation presented its petition according to regular form before the board. The board decided to view the road, and, as a result of a view, agreed to grant the company a right-of-way along ten feet of the west side of the road. This grant would have been formally made Wednesday last but for objections from the telegraph and telephone companies.

Effort For Private Right-of-Way. The company attempted to secure private right-of-way in this county, but met an obstacle in three landowners who re-fused to consider the sale of a right-ofway until the company had falled to procure the use of the public highway. These three persons controlled nearly two miles along the road. The company's representatives say a public right-of-way would not have been asked if the private right could have been procured from those persons, but that the line would be impossible unless there was a means provided to pass by this land on the high-

The franchise asked by the company is to construct a railroad, motive power not being specified; the franchise to run fifty years. The road was to be completed and in operation by a certain time. That was about as far as the company's franchise went. The commissioners so modified it that the company was to have only ten feet off the west side of the road; was to build its own bridges and keep them in repair, use electric motive power, and have the line in operation on or before January 1, 1896. There was no provision as to the number of cars, their frequency, the rate of speed, or of the fare to be charged, the commissioners believing that the traffic would regulate this. There was no requirement that the company pay anything for its rights.

What Grafton Johnson Says. to construct a railroad, motive power not

What Grafton Johnson Says. Grafton Johnson, president of the ompany, in speaking of the report that nethods were used at the election in Pleasant township that were not consistent with the spirit of the election sistent with the spirit of the election law, said: "That probably rose from the fact that there was a very heavy vote polled. This was due to the campaign on the question. Those who would be directly benefited by the road were in favor of it, and those who were remotely benefited were opposed to tethat is, not opposed to the road, but to the subsidy. In and about Greenwood, the most populous part of the township, the sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of the subsidy. The opposition was in the lower part of the township. The only way in which I am interested in this enterprise is through the fact that the bank with which I am connected will advance the amount of the subsidy voted, which is 334,000, or less than 2 cents on the hundred dollars of taxable property in the township. The money from this tax will not be available for the use of the company until May and December, 1896, because it will not be collected until then. The election, I am satisfied, was thoroughly legitimate in every respect, as I believe an investigation would show."

Mr. Johnson said that it was the intention of the company to run a car every hour from each terminus. The line here would connect with the Citizens' Street Rallroad Company, No decision as to the rate of fare had been made and he said this would be largely the result of the travel on the road.

The Farmers' Electric Rallway. law, said: "That probably rose from the

The Farmers' Electric Railway. Recently when the Farmers' Electric Railway Company wanted a subsidy from Washington township, in this county, to aid in the construction of an electy, to aid in the construction of an electric line, it incorporated under the general railroad law. The county commissioners heard evidence as to what kind of a road the corporation intended to build. The board decided that it intended to build an electric street railroad, and refused to order the election on the ground that a subsidy could only be voted for a steam railroad.

Schliewen Quartet's First Concert The first of a series of concerts by the Schliewen string quartet will be given in Schliewen string quartet will be given in Bryant's music hall, 58 North Pennsylvania street, on Tuesday evening, January 15. Some of the finest chamber works ever written will be rendered at this and subsequent concerts. The quartet has been rehearsing steadily and has reached a rare state of excellence. It is easily the best organization of its kind in this part of the country. It is composed of Richard Schliewen, director and first violinist: Louise Schrader, second violinist: Louise Schrader, second violinist: of Richard Schneed, director and assetioninist; Louise Schrader, second violinist; Adolph Schellschmidt, 'cello, and Rudolph Koster, violo. The individual ability of each of these musicians is already established.

The quartet will be assisted at the first oncert by Oliver Willard Pierce, the well-known pianist. At one of the later concerts Franz X. Arens, whose fine voice well-known pianist. At one of the later concerts Franz X. Arens, whose fine voice has been heard in public here only two or three times, will sing. Mr. Arens's quartet, which has received the warmest praise where it has been played by the New York Philharmonic Club, will probably be brought out at one of the concerts. The programs are being arranged so as to secure great variety. There will be solos each time, as well as ensemble numbers, though the object in giving the concerts is, mainly, to stimulate a taste for chamber music—a form in which the greatest composers have taken delight in writing. Tickets for the series or for single concerts may be had at Bryant's.

Friedheim at Plymouth Church. Owing to the general interest in the re cital by Arthur Friedheim, announced for Thursday, January 19, the Ladies Mati-nee Musicale has decided to have it given in Plymouth church on the evening of that date, instead of in the afternoon at the Propylaeum. Tickets of admission will be sold to the public. A business meeting of active members of the Musicale will be held on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Propylaeum.

His program consisted of selections from "Tannhaeuser" Wagner-Friedheim; two of Mendelssonhn's "Songs Without Words"; Rubinstein's barcarole in Fminor; a study and an etude by Chopin and Wagner's "Harmondes du Soir," and "Eriking." Mrs. Caroline Winter Goetz will assist with vocal numbers.

"Oases of the Algerian Sahara." The first of a series of lectures by E. Burton Holmes will be given to-night at Plymouth church. It is entitled, "Oases of the Algerian Sahara." The lecture will be illustrated by the stereopticon.

After rigging themselves out in the necessary cos stumes, a descent was made to the six-hundred-foot level, where the party alighted, and where Senator Fair was encountered. He was fitted out in a "jumper," overalls and other rough garments, and was not distinguishable from the rest of the roughly-clad miners about him. Davis introduced the actress with the remark, "This is the celebrated actress, Modjeska, Jimmy," and vouch safed no information to her as to the iden tity of her new acquaintnace. The Sen ator asked Modjeska if she wished to see the mine, and upon replying in the affirmative, personally conducted her through the various underground passages. After the trip had been made, and the party had returned to the surface, Modjeska asked Davis if she had not better give their guide a little testimonial of the appreciation of his services, and the newspaper man unhesitatingly remarked that he thought it would be a good idea, whereupon the actress drew a silver half-dollar from her purse and dropped it into the hand of the Senator. Observing the look of astonishment, the actress asked Davis what caused it, and that individual responded that probably the gift was not as large ator asked Modjeska if she wished to se that probably the gift was not as large as the man had expected, when the actress added another half-dollar to the one which the Senator held, and left him before he had recovered his usual com-

Bi-Partisan Commission System. New York Post.

When men are put into a place of this sort because they are Republicans or Democrats, each one of them naturally and inevitably comes to think of himself as put there to look after the interests of his party, to see that his party gets its due share of promotion, that its men are shielded from punishment, and that Re-publican or Democratic criminals are not too harshly treated, and he just as inevitably aranges a system of log-rolling for these purposes with the other side Moreover, when places of this sort have to be filled by men of a particular party the caucus or county committee inevit ably assumes the right of "naming" then the appointing power. ably assumes the right of "naming" them to the appointing power. A man's fitness for the place is about the last thing such a committee thinks of, and after he gets the place he naturally feels that his first allegiance is due to the body which put him into it. Taking all these things into consideration, we think it is not rash to assure the citizens of New York that if they now allow the bi-partisan commission system to be tried, they will in a very few years have exactly the state of things again over which they are now holding up their hands in horror.

Mr. Logan married Mrs. Gaines five years ago, and he is the father of two bright little girls. The Enoch Arden in this case, without Enoch's virtue of self-sacrifice, claims to have married the woman seven years ago in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Logan does not deny this, but she claims that Gaines is not her lawful husband, and she admits that her marriage to Logan is her third venture. She also claims that her first husband was living when she married Gaines, but that he was dead when she married Mr. Logan. Her first husband was named Hitchcock. He being dead, her marriage to Logan, she insists, is legal. She also pleads that she thought Gaines was dead when she married Mr. Logan who had no knowledge of her previous alliances until Gaines appeared upon the scene. Gaines declares his purpose of prosecuting Mrs. for bigamy. He does not present a creditable appearance, inas-

Special to The Indianapolis News. Lebanon, Ind., January 7.—This city, during the past season, put in a six-thousand-dollar water-works plant, which was accepted recently from the contractors. But it seems, however, that trouble will grow out of the matter. The con-tractors, Bynum, Brenton & Co., accepted the building of the plant at a special figure, but upon the completion of their contract filed before the City Council a bill for $9.280 for extra labor and material and for damages occasioned by delay of the civil engineer. The Council rejected the claim, and the contractors at once filed a suit in the Crcuit Court asking judgment for the amount. Beside this suit two others have been filed—one by the Anniston Pipe and Foundry Company, for $3,249.93, for material furnished for the water-works; the other by the Bourbon copper and brass-works, for material for the same purpose.

The City Council has decided to hold the contractors strictly to their written agreement, and will demand that the system be finished in every detail.

Alleged Forgery at Logansport.

Special to The Indianapolis News. Logansport, Ind., January 7.—A Logansport, Ind., January 7.—A warrant was issued Saturday for the arrest of William McDonald, Jr., upon the charge of uttering a forged check to Harry G. Tucker, a merchant tailor of this city. The name alleged to have been forged to the check is that of F.
W. Crosby, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank of Chicago, in which institution McDonald was forwhich institution McDonald was for-merly employed as bookkeper. He is a member of one of the foremost families of the city, and his downfall has created a great sensation. It is attributed to in-toxicants. MoDonald has left the city, and has not yet been located.

Rumored Bribery at Terre Haute. Terre Haute, Ind., January 7.—The chief of the city fire department has laid before the city council a letter which he received from the Revere Rubber Company, relative to a bid on 1,000 feet of hose, in which the writer offered the chief $75 commission, and said that the com-mission could be divided between himself and the chairman of the fire committee. The writer also said that Councilman Wey was his friend, and had used his influence with Councilman Liehr. Mr. Wey denied that money had been used on him but charged that it had been ong members of the city council The grand jury is investigating.

Quick Courtship and Marriage. Greencastle, Ind., January 7.—A singular wedding is reported in the edge of Morgan-Putnam countles, Mr. Harrison Tincher, a wealthy bachelor, securing a license and a minister, and calling upon the lady whom he had selected, the minthe lady whom he had selected, the minister being delegated to acquaint her of Mr. Tincher's choice, of which she knew nothing. The bride-elect was Miss Mary Ann Staley, of similar age to Mr. Tincher, who is fifty-one, and the owner of a fine farm. She was equal to the emergency, however, and after making a slight change in apparel, there was a wedding.

A Big Four Passenger Killed. Special to The Indianapolis News.

Crawfordsville, Ind., January 7.—This morning at Wesley, seven miles west of Crawfordsville, the body of a stylishlydressed man, of perhaps forty-five years old, was found lying alongside the Big Four tracks. From a hole in his head the brains oozed, but no other wounds were on the body. He was probably a passenger on the west-bound train last night, and fell off while passing from one car to another. The coroner has gone to investigate the case.

A Sad Suicide at Foxville.

Special to The Indianapolis News. Rockville, Ind., January 7. - Fannie Marshall, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Thomas Marshall, a merchant at Foxville, a mining town, this county, swal-lowed morphine last Saturday night with suicidal intent. When she was discovered yesterday morning efforts to save her life were unavailing. She was a beautiful and intelligent girl. A note left indicated sul-cide on account of a lover's quarrel. She obtained the drug in her father's store, where she clerked.

An Old Bridge Condemned. Richmond, Ind., January 7.—The old bridge spanning White river at the crossing of Whitewater river, built by the Government in 1834, has been condemned and closed against traffic. This is one of the oldest bridges in the country. It has done active service for sixty years, and it is probably the only one standing of the original bridges built along the line of the Natonal road.

Plaintiff Gets a Substantial Verdict. Spencer, Ind., January 7.—The jury in the case of Mary R. Moberly vs. James R. Henry, cashler of the State Bank, wherein plaintiff claims damages for stander, returned a verdict for $2.250. It is the second trial of the case. A new weekly paper has been issued at Noblesville, called the Tribune. Messrs. R. S. Peed and R. A. Martin are the editors and publishers. The new venture is Republican. While Noblesville has been styled the graveyard of newspapers, inasmuch as the bones of several ventures lie whitening in the track of years, the Tribune editorially claims that there is no hectic flush on its cheeks, while its editors affirm that Hamilton county affords a fine field for a clean, bright, enterprising paper.

Special correspondents at Lebanon of the metropolitan press last Saturday night sent out thrilling accounts of an alleged kidnapping affair at Thorntown, wherein it was stated that the little son of a banker had been forcibly carried away, to be held for ransom. An armed posse gave pursuit, and found the child sleeping in a cave. Afterward the despenadoes were surrounded in a swamp, and there the correspondents left the force battling. The News this morning telegraphed to its special representative at Thorntown, and prompt the answer came by wire that there was absolutely no truth in the story. It was nothing but fiction, pure and simple.

Lay members of the Catholic church, who are also members of the Knights of Pythias, Red Men, or other secret societies to-day, express the belief that the alleged papal bull against secret societies does not exist. Were it bona fide and in force, they say, they would have been notified in church yesterday.

Bishop Chatard was asked whether if the Pope had issued a decree against secret societies it would not have been read to the congregations in the Catholic churches yesterday. The Bishop, in reply,

"Archbishop Kain was interviewed in St. Louis the other day and I think he said exactly the right thing in this matter. I am a little in doubt myself about said exactly the right thing in this matter. I am a little in doubt myself about the whole affair. He said a decree of that kind had been sent to the archbishops and bishops of the country with the injunction to keep it secret for two months so that the bishops might give their opinion with regard to the advisability of it and as to the practical carrying out of such a decree. I am waiting for further information and my condition may be described as one of expectancy. I am sorry to see anything like feeling come up in this matter.

"There is no hostile feeling on the part of the church toward these secret societies. The only thing we look to is the spiritual good of our people. We consider that with their belief they must do certain things, attend to certain religious duties, and we find that such societies are apt to take them away from their religious duties. This is our consensus of opinion with regard to the influence of these societies upon our young men. They become careless in regard to their duties as Catholics. This is our position, but it is taken without hostility to these societies, and solely with regard to persons who are Catholics."

HYLAND HITS TRON.

Clash Between a Policeman and a Saloon-Keeper.

Acting Captain Hyland was called to William Tron's saloon Sunday morning about 2:30 o'clock. The officer could see nothing wrong going on and had started through the alley near the place to telephone to the station that everything was all right when a man and a woman came out of the rear door of the saloon. The officer says that the woman was under the influence of liquor. As soon as they saw the officer they darted back into the they saw the officer they darted back into the place. Hyland walked into the restaurant next door and there found Tron. The officer asked what was the trouble and was told that there was none. Hyland then said that he had understood that Tron had agreed that the police should have he more trouble with his place. Tron replied that he had not been doing business and began to abuse Hyland and the entire city administration. He is said to have anniled several vice enithets to the and the entire city administration. He is said to have applied several vile epithets to the acting captain and was told that he must not repeat his language. He did repeat it, Hyland says, and Hyland knocked him down. Sergeant Laporte and patrolman Pope arrested Tron and sent him to the police station in the patrol wagon, where he was charged with drunkenness, resisting an officer and profanity. His trial was continued this morning. Tron said that he did not abuse the officer and said nothing to him at which offense should have been taken. Tron's face is badly swollen as the result of the officer's blow.

BOTH MEN WERE KILLED.

The Result of a Duel In a New Orleans Saloon.

New Orleans, January 7.-A fatal duel was fought in Nebon's bar-room, Saturday night, between James Cook, a well-known man about town and ward poliknown man about town and ward politician, and Charles Hudnall, employed in the tax bureau of the City Hall. The trouble grew out of Cook's intimacy with Hudnall's seventeen-year-old daugh-with Hudnall's seventeen-year-old daughter, who was betrayed by him.

The latter was in the bar-room with several friends, and was in the act of drinking when Hudnall entered. Without saying a word Hudnall began fring. Cook teisurely put down his glass and drawing his pistol, began to shoot. Cook fired four shots and Hudnall five. When the shooting ceased both men were found to be dead. Cook was shot three times, receiving a bullet in each leg and one through the heart. Hudnall was shot once through the brain. H. G. Miller, one of Cook's friends, was slightly wounded.

SHE DIED FROM FRIGHT.

A Queer Story of Superstition and Subsequent Death.

Augusta, Ga., January 7.—Mrs. Bailey ohnson has died here, literally frightened to death. A "voodoo doctor" vis-Ited her and told her that she was filled with prunes and lizzards. When the alleged doctor told her this she immediately took to her bed and her death followed. Her children accused their father of having conjured the old woman, and some of them proposed to move their mother from her home and take her to their home.

The old man, not believing that there was any reason for the removal of his wife, remonstrated. Bailey, his son, grew yery angry and attacked the father. The old man, in defending his own life, slew his son. He was arrested, but has been released.

Henry James's Play Fails.

London, January 7.—Henry James's new play, "Guy d'Ormville," was given at St. James Theater Saturday. It is a romantic play in three acts. It was produced to a crowded house, attended by many of the notables of London. The play is a com-edy in the manners of 1750, and is a his-tory of an old Catholio family. It was favorably received by most of the persons in attendance. At the end there was a storm of hisses and "booing" from the pit and from the galleries that the applause from the stalls could not drown. The disorder continued throughout and the play is undoubtedly a failure.

Refused To Grant An Armistice. London, January 7 .- A dispatch to the Times from Peking says that the Chi-nese envoy to negotiate for peace with Japan had a farewell audience with the Emperor on Friday. Japan refuses to grant an armistice. Mr. Denby, the American minister, believes that the ne-cottations will be fruitless. The Japan gotiations will be fruitless. The Japan-ese will withhold their terms for peace until they shall have occupied Peking.

The Idaho Contest.

Boise, Idaho, January 7.—Although the legislators are nearly all in the city, it is impossible as yet to form any idea of the relative strength of Senator Shoup and Judge Sweet in the senatorial contest. Friends of each are confident. The Populist members, fifteen in number, will probably cast their votes for Colonel Crook, their candidate for Governor two

THE MARKETS ON MONDAY

SPECULATIVE TRADING IN WHEAT, CORN AND PROVISIONS.

Indianapolis and Chicago Live Stock Markets - Current Comments On the Financial Situation-Commercial Notes-Quotations.

The grain markets were quite active, and prices were firm early, but the large Russian shipments (4,500,000) were the bearish factors, while the total clearances were large. Market closes rather hasy with 1/10 loss. Corn was rather heavy on the cold, clear weather and Provisions opened 10c lower on the arge hog receipts, but firmed up on good buying by packers.

The Situation.

The year 1895 opened with agitation for currency reform the most important topic of discussion. Reports appear at intervals that Secretary Carlisle is to re-sign. Whatever the merits of Mr. Car-lisle may be as a financier, his relations with the New York bankers have not been cordial or in fact in the least sympathetic. On the contrary, he has pursued a policy in details which has aroused powerful opponents in New York, and while it is recognized that Mr. Cleveland stands for sound money, the banking community would no doubt be pleased to discover some day that the report of Mr. Carlisle's resignation was true. His currency bill giving free rein to State banks to issue currency is opposed by all men versed in currency mat-ters. The State banks under Carliele's plan would be less subject to restrictions, etc., than the Natonal banks and it is hought that the effect of the measure would be to drive the National banks out would be to drive the National banks out of existence.

Were it not for the irrepressible preference for paper money by the American people, our whole currency might be modeled after that of England or Germany. In the latter country there is comparatively little paper money in circulation, gold being the circulating medium, sliver being used for subsidiary coins. Gold coins are always clean and bright and are attractive, and are not more inconvenient to carry than a wad of greasy paper bills. A glance into a small purse containing several gold coins will reveal approximately the amount therein, but who can tell how much there is in a roll of bills, some being thin, old and torn, while others are new and crisp. The greenback fallacy educated our people up to paper money, but if they could once become used to the gold, we think they would find it neater and cleaner. We have done enough experimenting in currency matters. Let us now copy the systems of the Old World and enjoy peace and immunity from these currency scares. If the civilized world accepts gold as the standard, and the only standard, that must be our standard of value, and there must be no half-way about it, and no admixture of silver or wild-cat currency.

Supplies of Live Stock. Mallory & Co.'s Circular

Our crop report shows that the re-ported supply of hogs will be consider-ably less during the next thaee months than the last three months, and that the supply of hogs for next spring and sumsupply of hogs for next spring and summer markets is also reported lighter. This shortage will be less apparent at Chicago and Eastern markets, and more apparent at most of the markets at the apparent at most of the markets at the Missouri river, as the poorest reports come from sections tributary to the Missouri river markets. The report is given below: The figures in the first column denote the percentage of hogs to be marketed during the first three months of 1894. The second column the percentage of hogs for next spring and summer, compared with 1894. The third column the percentage of first half of 1895, compared with 1894. The fourth column the percentage of corn on hand, compared with January 1, 1894. The fifth column the percentage of corn on hand, compared with January 1, 1894. The fifth column the percentage of live stock that has been fed wheat during 1894. Averages of the returns, taking last year or seasons as 100, are as follows:

Wheat afloat for and in Europe on the 1st inst. aggregated 57,744,000 bushels, a falling off of 22,200,000 bushels from a year ago, 10,500,000 bushels from two years ago, and 20,700,000 bushels from three years ago. The most bullish year ago, 10,500,000 bushels from two years ago, and 20,700,000 bushels from three years ago. The most bullish feature of Bradstreet's regular monthly report of American wheat stocks is found in the net decrease of 689,000 bushels in available supplies in the United States and Canada during December last, whereas in four preceding years December available stocks of wheat here and in Canada each increased an average of between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 bushels. Available wheat in the United States, Canada, Europe and affoat for Europe January 1 increased only 143,000 bushels in December. In December, 1895, there was a decrease of 18,000 bushels, and in the year before a gain of 6,558,000 bushels. The least bullish feature of the report is the supplementary report giving uncounted stocks of available Russian wheat at the interior. These are reported monthly from June 1 last, when they amounted to $,800,000 bushels. Since then they have doubled, the total January 1, 1895, being 17,600,000 bushels.

Increasing Gold Production.

The increase in the gold production of The increase in the gold production of the country is an altogether favorable sign. Men from the West tell us that Eastern people do not yet understand the impetus which has been given to gold mining through the fall of silver. They further say that they should not be surprised to see a rabid speculation soon in gold mining sharps similar to the socalicd Kafiir circus on the London Stock Exchange. It is singular, but worthy of gold mining sharps similar to the socalled Kaffir circus on the London Stock Exchange. It is singular, but worthy of note, that the last great boom in mining shares preceded a great period of prosperity in this country. The thing was overdone and swindlers reaped big profits, but the boom continued in other directions. It may be asked now, knowing that history repeats itself, whether we are not at present approaching a big boom in all branches of trade.

In the 1873 panic conditions were much worse than during the recent troubles.
Everything fell, then, including real estate and wages. The latter were slaughtered right and left, and there was no work. During the recent panic real estate and wages have held fairly well.
From this it is argued that since the conditions have not been so bad as in the '12 panic, complete recovery will come much sconer. In 1873 the demoralization lasted five years, and it is not expected to last now more than two years.

Lowest Prices On Record.

Lowest Prices On Record.

Dun's Review The year has been especially notewor The year has been especially noteworthy for the lowest prices of wheat and cotton on record. Both suffer from wholly unprecedented accumulation of stocks, the crops being large. Outside this country wheat production has not increased enough to justify a price of 600 at New York, and the accumulation is largely due to false reports of yield intended to frighten buyers and raise prices. The same influence has been felt in cotton, which is also affected by world-wide dopression in business and decrease in consumption of goods. In other produce markets, the year has been relatively less important.

Put Them Away In Camphor. The great fact stands out in bold reand that prices have discounted the worst long ago, and that the next move of importance must naturally be in the other direction, the more so, when itother direction, the more so, when it is provement in general trade has already appeared above the horizon. The present looks like the time to buy stocks to hold for a couple of years, and any one who has money to spare will probably make no mistake in buying some of the many low-priced stocks and bonds and putting them away in camphor. This country has passed through a severe spasm, but it is not going to the demnition bowwows just yet, and in times like the present this is a consideration which every one should keep constantly in mind.

LANDMARKS/NEEDED.

Surveyors Complain About Obliterating Established Lines.

Real estate agents in this city complain that they have constant disputes with surveyors about the correct boundary lines, and that a system of land marks and monuments is necessary by which all engineers will have a uniform basis for calculation. The agents quote the sur-veyors as saying that surveying, instead of being a mathematical operation here, with all the accuracy that mathematics produces in expert hands, is simply, more or less, a question of judgment among

if the condition of the city and township

W. H. Butt, a civil engineer, was asked if the condition of the city and township was such that attention would be necessary. Mr. Butt said:

"Establishing lot corners and lines in Indianapolis has always been a source of vexation and trouble for surveyors, owing to the fact that there are no monuments that can be used as starting points for surveys. There are a few places on the outskirts of the city where stone monuments can be found, but in most oases these have been lost when the streets were graded, no care having been taken to protect them.

"Oak Hill, which is the most intricate plece of surveying in the city, was laid out on the park system. There were about four hundred stone monuments set at that time, but the records, having evidently been copied by an inexperienced man, the most important measurements and bearings were either omitted or improperly copied, so that it is next to impossible in most cases to make a survey without the original drawings from which the records in the county recorder's office were copied.

"Present monuments, such as buildings and fences, are the only landmarks left from which to make a starting point, hence, the difference of opinion that is constantly arising among surveyors makes it merely a matter of judgment, rather than surveying. There has also been careless work, causing large surpluses or deficiencies in different localities.

"The difficulties arising from this source, as well as from the indefinite pluses or deficiencies in different localities.

"The difficulties arising from this source, as well as from the indefinite starting points engineers are forced to use, should be obviated by an ordinance providing for the re-survey, by triangulation of the entire city and in fact of the whole of Center township (for the city will eventually cover the whole of the township). Stone monuments established at all street intersections, and placed at sufficient depth, with an iron cover for protection. A system of this kind, where the city would have its own records, would be vastly superior to the present system, and would do away with the erros that are constantly occurring in making up assessment rolls for improvements, and could be done in one-fourth the time that is now required. "As these records would be accessible to the public, and they would show the monuments as they existed with measurements and angles to property lines, it would also do away with disputes bonstantly arising among surveyors. As there would be but one starting point, all must end alike."

Convicted of Murder. Freeport, Ill., January 7.—Three months ago August Altemier was stoned to death by a gang of local toughs, seven of whom were arrested on a charge of murder. The trial ended to-day. The jury acquitted five, and found Tom Beverly and Otto Herbigg guilty of murder. Beverly was sentenced to hang and Herbigg to eighteen years in the penitentiary.

PRESENT OUTLOOK IN SPEAKER-THP CONTEST.

The Number of Candidates Decreasing-Leedy In the Race To Stay-Claims of Some of the Candidates-The Caucuses.

The number of candidates for Speaker of the House of Representatives is decreasing. Clinton F. Hessler, of Fountain county, who has been announced as a candidate, upon his arrival here to-day authorized the statement that he is not a candidate, and that he is for J. C. Adams. "I received a good deal of encourage ment," said Mr. Hessler, "but after ma ture consideration I have decided not to be a candidate. It is the wish of the Republicans of my county that I shall sup-port Mr. Adams, and I shall do so." Two or three other candidates are virtually out of the race, and they have led those who have talked with them to be said that they were not ready to an-nounce their positions. Everybody about the hotel said that it was the field against Adams, with not much, if any, prospect of the field uniting.

F. D. Merritt's strength was slowly showing itself. Most of it lies in the extreme northern part of the State, and not many of the representatives from that section have arrived. Mr. Merritt has been endeavoring to hurry them up, but most of them have informed him that

Clearings In Various Cities,
The associated banks clearings at the izens of the First district. It is announced that Mr. Holloway will surely get every vote in the First district, and his friends are endeavoring to pick up a good many votes throughout the State. Mr. Holloway and his supporters are urging that 'the southern part of the State, or that part of it known as the "pocket," should receive some recognition. They recall that the last, Republican Speaker was taken from the northern part of the State, and they declare that turn about is fair play.

Josiah G. Allen, of Daviess county, has also brought here a lobby composed of all the influential politicians of his county. Mr. Allen is friendly toward Mr. Adams and while, as he says, he has no intention of getting out of the race, he would not feel that a mistake had been made were Mr. Adams nominated. B. M. Willoughby, of Knox county; Marshall Newhouse, of Decatur; Thomas

READY TO GREET HIS FRIENDS.

T. Moore, of Putnam, and A. J. Stake-bake, of Randolph, each have home friends here working for them. C. F. Remy, of Bartholomew, is still a candidate, but he has been doing but little work among the members. George B. Cardwill, of Floyd, had not arrived this afternoon. So far as the members here are informed, Mr. Cardwill is still a candidate.

Leedy In To Stay.

W. H. Leedy of Indianapolis, is in the contest to stay. His candidacy has attracted a good deal of attention during the last twenty-four hourse of all the candidates he appears to be the most active. tive. Friends from all parts of the State have come here to lend him a helping hand, and he is much encouraged. "You may say that I have two of the six votes of Marion county," said he. "Before the caucus meets I shall have four of the six votes of the county. I am pledged votes from out in the State. I am not making a fight on any man. I am running as a from out in the State. I am not making a fight on any man. I am running as a citizen. I am not the candidate of the Order of Odd Fellows, or of any secret organization. The men who are here working for me are not here as Odd Fellows, but as citizens of the State, who know me, and believe I ought to be elected Speaker. I will be the Speaker." The two votes from this county which Mr. Leedy claims are those of Representatives Vonnegut and McGregor, It is averred by Adams's managers that McGregor will vote for Adams. Mr. McGregor will not say at this time what he intends to do.

It is the impression among the thoughtful men interested in the contest that if Marion county had only one candidate there would not be any question about the nomination. Among some of the members from other counties there is a disposition to say that if the county can not agree upon a candidate, they should not be expected to step in and agree on one for the county; that the country should nominate a man outside the county in which the capital is situated. There was 'some talk during the day about an effort to form a combine between Leedy and one of the strong candidates from another county for the purpose of defeating Adams, but there did not seem to be much foundation for such gossip. It seems to be true that the outside candidates all have a kindly feeling for Adams, and that if they see that they can not nominate on of their own number they will prefer Adams.

Few Members Here Yet. Not more than half the members of the House are here, and the candidates realize that until the eighty-two Republican members get here it will be impossible to form a correct estimate of the strength of any candidate. None of the candidates will give any figures at this time. Each one was asked for figures and each wished to be excused until later. Representative Hanna, of Putnam county, is ill, and will, it is announced, not be able to attend the caucus. In his absence forty-one votes will nominate in the caucus. One of Mr. Adams's friends said to-day that Mr. Adams had forty-six votes pledged, and would have ten more before the caucus meets. The other candidates do not believe this statement, Mr. Merritt's friends profess to believe that at this time Mr. Merritt has more votes than any other candidate.

The caucus will not meet until Wednesday night. After the call for Tuesday night had been put in circulation, members who had signed it reconsidered, and asked that their names be erased. They learned that their names be rased. They learned that their names to that night too late for a caucus on that night, too late for a caucus on that night. Candidates Merritt and Leedy did not sign the call for the reason, as they say, that they feit an injustice might be done some of the members who live far from the capital. Representative Elilott, of Henry county, was surprised when he saw in some of the napers that he was working for Mr. Newhouse for Speaker.

"I am for Mr. Adams," said he, "my constituents instructed me to support Mr. Adams, and it is my own judgment that he is the candidates that I should support. I received a letter from home this morning inquiring if I had gone back on my instructions. I feel kindly toward all the candidates, but I feel that it is my duty to support Mr. Adams."

ACME MILLING COMPAN Y

The Work Commended By Dr. Sims The Army's History and Methods -Mr. Ellison's First Sermon at the First Baptist Church.

The Salvation Army unfurled its battleflag yesterday afternoon, and the warfare was begun against the armed hosts of Satan in the city of Indianapolis. The army held meetings at Memorial Presbyterian church in the morning, at Me-ridian-street Methodist Episcopal church in the afternoon, and at Second Presbyterian church at night. The meetings were the first of an active campaign the Salvation Army intends to carry on in this city for several months. The work is to be conducted by Capt. J. Stuyvesant, Lieut. Charles Sherman, and other officers and soldiers.

The Rev. C. N. Sims, at the meeting held in his church yesterday afternoon, indorsed the Salvation Army movement. "I have seen its work in New York city," he said, "and I can testify to the wonderful good accomplished by the organi-sation among the masses which the churches fail to reach. The soldiers of the Salvation Army are doing the Mas-

the Salvation Army are using the assistance that you can give them."

Brigadier Fielding, who has come here from Chicago to take temporary charge of the campaign, led the meeting. Ensign Blackhurst, a young officer in a uniform, prayed. As the prayer ended, and while recopie were yet on their knees. and while people were yet on their knees, Brigadier Fielding began a song. Mrs. Captain Stuyvesant, a small woman, whose white face was almost hidden by her odd army bonnet, followed with a prayer; and after that two young women, called Captain and Lieutenant

The History of the Army, After members of the army testified to the power of God, Brigadier Fielding spoke of the work which the Salvation Army corps hopes to do in this city. "Some will spell it c-o-r-p-s-e," said he, "but the activity of our soldiers will convince you that it is not a corpse at all. I hope the devil, least of all, will not think that we are a corpse; and with think that we are a corpse; and, with God's help, he shall not."

The Brigadler told the story of Gen.

The Brigadier told the story of Gen. Booth's beginning of the Salvation Army. General Booth, twenty-nine years ago, was a Methodist parson in England, and he and others were discussing plans by which the masses of "darkest England" could be reached by the induences of religion. After wrestling with God over his convictions, Booth determined to quit his work as a minister of the church, and he began the movement which has since been carried on by the Salvation Army. He rented a dance had in that part of London where the vilest men and women were to be found. The work prospered. These fallen men and women had refused to come to the church, and Booth had taken the church to them. Better quarters soon became necessary. The originator of the new idea in religion determined to reorganize his church of the masses, giving it a military character. Since then it has spread around the world, and the drum of the Salvation Army is heard in many lands.

Objection To Methods Discussed: Objection To Methods Discussed:

The Brigadier discussed the objections which some urge against the army's methods. Many condemn the use of the drum; but Fielding went on to tell its value. The drum answers the same pur-pose as the church bell, and it falls upon pose as the church bell, and it laits upon many an ear calloused to the sound from the church steeple. The Brigadier told the story of a drunken prize-lighter, first attracted by the sound of the drun, who had entered a Salvation Army barracks, and who had been converted. Others object to the flag; but it is a necessary symbol of military organization. It is the sign of the open-air meeting. In concluding his talk, the Brigadier sector of the Salvation Army's growth. spoke of the Salvation Army's growth. In Chicago, he said, it occupies a building seating three thousand people. There is no trouble in raising money for the rent, $250 a month; the movement is indorsed. In the last year the army has fed 50,000 homeless men and women in Chicago; it has made more than 5,00 visits to squalid homes, and it has saved nearly two thousand souls. More than six thousand meetings have been held, with a total attendance of 720,885 people. The Brigadier predicted a victorious campaign in indianapoils.

Barracks for the army have been secured in the two upper floors of the building at 33%. South Illinois street, where the indoor meetings will be held, beginning Wednesday night. Those who have come from Chicago to assist in the work are Brigadier Fielding, Ensign Blackhurst, Capt. John Duncan, Captain Jones and Lieutenant Jones. Capt. J. B. Stuyvesant will be the chief local officer.

There will be services in Masonic Hall to-morrow night. ke of the Salvation Army's growth.

MR. ELLISON'S FIRST SERMON.

The New Pastor Preaches at the First Baptist Church. The members of the First Baptist church yesterday morning welcomed their new pastor, the Rev. D. J. Ellison, of Jersey City, N. J. As well as being the first Sunday of the new year, yesterday was the first Sunday of Mr. Ellison's work in the First Baptist church. Every year west the parties at the morning service.

work in the First Baptist church. Every seat was taken at the morning service. The Rev. Mr. Ellison is a man apparently past middle life. His pulpit manner is direct, and although his voice is not powerful, the closest attention was paid to every word. The power of his sermon depended as much upon the modulation of his voice as upon his occasional gestures. He spoke without manuscript gestures. He spoke without manuscript of any kind. He impressed his congrega-tion as a man who has studied much, yet is in close touch and sympathy with

The subject of the sermon was "Chris tian Loyalty," and the preacher said, in

'My text is the words of David's bodyguard, 'Behold, thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord the king shall appoint.' The whole tendency of human life is to focalize, to center about given times. These are the birthdays and marriage days when the world is merry with music. They are like mountain peaks upon which the sun shines, and which men look back and see through all their lives. There are other culminating days, dark and gloomy ones, when life is a duly river running, through a leafless landscape. It was on such a day as this that David heard the words which form the text.

ape. It was on such a day as this that avid heard the words which form the xt.

"David, the King, was in despair, when tere came a ray of light. It was the utrance of his brave, gaunt soldiers standig in the court yard, and declaring their addiness to do whatsoever the King commanded. This suggests the loyalty which due from every Christian to his King.
"Loyalty is a kind of heroism. There are varying degrees; but all loyalty is for thers. Self is forgotten. There is a tenency almost everywhere, I believe, to epreciate men. Yet there is loyalty in very man. Get on a trolley ear on rainy day, when it is crowded, and very one is carrying an umbrella. You ome to the conclusion that humanity in he mass is not a very admirable thing, for search of the conclusion that humanity in he mass is not a very admirable thing. You see only the bark and the knots, the ough places, under which there is a rich rain of loyalty.

"It is an everyday attribute—loyalty is not Napoleon, Hannibal, Caesar, tho were heroes; but father and mother ave for years practiced the heroism of oyalty, although we have not suspected. The mother's loyalty is wonderful. In ome homes we see a young girl, petted nd selfish; so delicately selfish that no ne notices the fault. The might and hystery of love come into her life, and he goes forth to help build a home. God ives her the keeping of a delicate life; nd when she first feels the fouch her abe against her cheek, a new sentiment, a mother's devotion, comes into er life. Loyalty, sacrifice come. "Heroism and loyalty are demanded verywhere in the world, Great compalies do not buy loyalty, but they expect from their employes, and if these are if the right sort it is given. Loyalty is need the common laws of life. There is lently of loyalty to man is greater than oyalty to God. The mother will often do nore for her child than she will for her laytor.

or few; no great men, or few; instead of these, rough fishermen. But they were honest, Honesty is one of the essentials of the man who is to stand upon God's side, to fight in His body-guard and to be loval to Him. God has no use for the tricky man. Only one tricky man in the Bible was converted, and that was for his grandfather's sake. God can do much for the m. who will be honest with Him.

tricky man in the Bible was converted, and that was for his grandfather's sake. God can do much for the m. who will be honest with Him.

"The loyalty of David's body-guard accomplished much when they went forth to battle. When Christ's followers are loyal they accomplish much. Is the world growing better? If we count, perhaps we must answer 'No', but if we weigh, the answer is, emphatically, 'Yes.' When we weigh, the loyal man stands for many. Once in the French army there was a little corporal who was so loyal to the standard that when soldiers saw him coming they shouted, 'The ten thousand.' The loyal man can fight like ten thousand. Let us, as Christians, be as loyal to Christ's standard as the little corporal was to the flag of France. Loyalty tells everywhere; and as the loyal body-guard of David returned triumphant over the hosts of Absalom, so shall the loyal followers of Christ return triumphant over the world."

CITY OFFICIALS' BUSINESS. Proposition To Prohibit Them From Having Outside Interests.

The Legislature will be asked to amend the city charter so as to prohibit officials of the city from engaging in any other business while in the employ of the city. The assertion is made that several of the city officers are interested in affairs connected with the city. It is claimed that some of the officials are attorneys for different business enterattorneys for different business enter-prises, and that the others are doing con-siderable outside work. The reason given for the proposed amendment is that if the officials are not permitted to do outside work that they can give the city better service.

FIE AND SALARY BILLS,

MANY OF THEM WILL BE INTRO-DUCED IN THE LEGISLATURE.

All the Measures In Preparation Expected To Go To Form a Compromise - Salaries of State and County Officers In One Bill.

It will not be many days after the opening of the Legislature before the calendar of either House will contain several fee and salary bills if the predictions of Senators and Representatives are fulfilled. Some members say they have had their political future forefold thus early by county officers, who without exception claim to be the political bosses of their respective counties. A candidate for Speaker intimated that he had been threatened with retirement if he did not watch his p's and q's, and a Senator was particularly incensed because he had heard directly that the fee grabbers, as he called them, would place him under the ban if he did not toe the mark. His hope that a bill placing fees at the lowest possible limit would be passed was ex-pressed with more emphasis than consid-eration for the honesty and unselfishness of county officers. "I am ready," said he,
"to send them out of town with a law depriving them of everything, but a chance to make a bare living out of their of-

It is expected the lobby on this question will be more vigorous, threatening, nu-merous and rich than it has ever been, and the legislator who is not prepared for and the legislator who is not prepared for it will not be in the swim.

"About twenty fee and salary bills," said a Senator, "are waiting the opening of the Legislature. No two are alike, and no one having a bill expects to have it passed as he has prepared it. None of them can pass as they have been written. Each, however, will serve in the making of the bill that will be passed. I have spent several weeks in preparing a fee of the bill that will be passed. I have spent several weeks in preparing a fee and salary bill, but I have no more idea of its going through than I have of flying. It will go into the general assortment the committee on fees and salaries will have to consider. Out of that committee will come a compromise bill, and it will be passed."

The Outs Watching the Issue.

The politicians out of office are watching this issue as closely as the politicians in office. They want the officers of their counties to be paid as much as possible, and a little more than the officers of other and a little more than the officers of other counties, where their influence will not be disturbed by any radical cutting down of fees and salaries. They have been consulted in the preparation of bills in several instances. A bill covering fifty-five pages of type-written copy was given a gentleman of State reputation, and once a member of the Republican State Central Committee, to look over. He was asked for suggestions. The bill came back to the author with one criticism, that was that the salaries for the officers of his own county were too low. His idea of that the salaries for the officers of his own county were too low. His idea of what they should be was marked in figures above the original figures of the bill. Thus he indicated that the clerk of his county should receive $5,000 instead of $3,300, as provided in the bill; the auditor $5,000 instead of $2,900, the treasurer $4,000 instead of $2,900. The long list of salaries for officers in the other ninety-one counties was left unmarked.

That bill was prepared by the Senator who said he did not expect to get it through either house, but when he introduces it in the Senate he will have a copy of it in the lower house. He thinks he has put salaries of State officers at the lowest limit, but says he would like to cut those of county officers a little more.

Salaries of State Officers. The bill gives the Secretary of State $2,500 a year; his deputy $1,000, and clerk $600. The Auditor and Treasurer of State are each to have $3,500, and their chief deputies $1,200 each. The clerks of the land department and that of insurance, in the first-named office, are to have re-spectively $800 and $600. The Attorney-General and Clerk of the Supreme Court are each to get $3,000 and the deputy of the former $1,200 and that of the latter paid $600. For the State Librarian, a salary of $1,200 is provided, with $900 for the first and $600 for the second assistant. The Superintendent of Public Instruction is to have $2,000, and his first clerk $1,000. In the Department of Geology, the director's salary in this bill is placed at $1,200, and that of his assistant at $600. The Mine Inspector is to get $1,200, Natural Gas Inspector $500 and the oil inspector is to receive fees for his services. ural Gas Inspector $300 and the oil inspector is to receive fees for his services. The salary of the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics is put at $1,200, and that of his deputy at 600. The Secretary of the State Board of Health is to receive $300. The salaries of the Supreme judges are placed at $3,500 each, and those of the Circuit, Superior and Criminal judges at $2,500. The sheriff of the Supreme Court and prosecuting attorneys are, to receive $500 each and fees. The Secretary of State, Auditor of State and Treasurer are to pay all fees collected by them into the State treasury for the use of the State, but the Attorney-General and Clerk of the Supreme Court are to be allowed 10 per cent. of all collections made by them.

For County Officers.

For County Officers. For county officers, the lowest salaries allowed are in Ohio, Starke and Union counties, in each of which the clerks are oounties, in each of which the clerks are to receive $1,000; the auditors, $1,200; recorders, $600; treasurers, $900; sheriffs, $900. The highest salaries of this class are, of course, provided for Marion county, as follows: Clerk, $18,000; auditor, $15,000; recorder, $11,000; treasurer, $10,000; sheriff, $13,000. The next highest salaries in order are those of Allen, Vanderburg and Vigo counties. In Allen, the clerk is to receive $6,500; auditor, $6,700; recorder.

and Vigo counties. In Allen, the clerk is to receive $6,500; auditor, $6,700; recorder, $2,500; treasurer, $5,300; sheriff, $6,000. In Vanderburg, the clerk, $5,400; auditor, $6,000; recorder, $3,000; treasurer, $4,800; sheriff, $4,800. In Vigo, the clerk, $5,000; auditor, $5,000; recorder, $2,500; treasurer, $4,000; sheriff, $4,000.

For other counties salaries are provided in the bill as follows:

All fees are to be paid into the county easuries, and fee funds for the several Republicans elected a part of the county officers. For the place of prosecuting attorncy there was a tle, John T. Goodman, the Democratic candidate, and Jonathan Keith, the Republican, each got As soon as the result was announced both candidates came to Indianapolis to consult the Governor. Neither knew that the other was coming, as they took different routes; and when they met in the reception room of Governor Matthews there was some embarassment. Each had an interview with the Governor, the Democrat urging him to fill the vacancy by appointment, the Republican asking for a special election.

Governor Matthews promised to take the matter under consideration, and refused to make out the commission of either man. Attorney-General Ketcham was consulted. Citizens of Knox county communicated with the Governor, telling him that a special election in the county would cost at least $2,000. As the office of prosecuting attorney is worth little more, the tax-payers said they did not feel that the election should be ordered. So far the tie has not been decided, and a good many people have forgotten that it exists. Some Republicans in Knox county, it is said, criticise the Governor for not ordering the special election. They claim that his delay has injured the chances of their man, as in a condition, he has a large Democratic majority to overcome.

It is reported that the subject will be introduced into the Legislature in the form of a resolution criticising the Governor for his failure to order the election. Until an election Goodman, the Democratic candidate, and present incumbent, will continue to hold office. The Governor is said to have hesitated because of the protests of Knox county citizens.

IN HUNTINGTON AND WELLS.

Contest Probable Between Rinear, Democrat, and Foust, Republican.

Senator T. E. Boyd says that there will no doubt be a contest between Adam Foust, the late Republican senatorial candidate in the district of Huntington and Wells, and J. W. Rinear, of Blufton, as to who was entitled to a seat in the State Senate. Rinear has a certificate of election on the returns, showing twenty-one majority, but Senator Boyd says that in one of the precincts a Republican vote was thrown out for the reason that the stamp had been pressed twice in the square containing the eagle; that in another precinct where both the eagle and the rooster were stamped, two ticke's were counted for the Democratic candidate; that in another place several Republican tickets were thrown out because there were some slight blots on them, and in the same instance a number of tickets were counted for the Democratic ticket where they were blotted worse than those of the rejected Republican tickets; that in another precinct Democrats organized themselves into a mob, four constituted themselves challengers at the window, without regard to law, and a number of Republicans were not allowed to vote; that in another precinct two Republican tickets were thrown out because the ink of the stencil left a slight mark or impression on the ticket; that in another precinct Democratic tickets were counted and Republican tickets thrown out, where exactly the same objections could be counted with equal force against either of the tickets; that in another place a number of Republican votes were thrown out without any cause whatever; that in another precinct two Democratic tickets were counted that were stamped twice in the square of the rooster, while two other tickets stamped twice in the square of the board resigned about an hour before the voting was closed; because that they were related to some one who was a candidate, that in another precinct a number of votes were thrown out, which, it is claimed, should have been counted for the contestant, Foust; that in other places, it is charged, where workmen were compelled to go to work early, the polls were not opened until after 9 o'clock long after such per content of the sensor. ote was thrown out for the reason that the stamp had been pressed twice in the Foust; that in other places, it is charged, where workmen were compelled to go to work early, the polls were not opened until after 9 o'clock, long after such persons were compelled to go to work, that in another place five tickets counted by a Democratic judge as straight Democratic tickets, had no stamp on them whatever; that in another place two Republican votes were thrown out because the stamp was a little above the device. In answer to the question as to what the Legislature would do, Senator Boyd said: "In my judgment the Republicans will act well. They will redistrict the State fairly, and they will pass a bi-partisan law concerning benevolent institutions. Undoubtedly a fair fee and salary bill will be passed."

NEW TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Nearly 1,500 Contracts Reported Se sured-What Old Company Says.

Agents of the Phoenix Telephone Com pany, who have been canvassing the city for subscribers, report that nearly 1,500 yearly contracts have been secured city for subscribers, report that nearly 1,500 yearly contracts have been secured. It is said that when 1,800 have been signed the company will apply to the city for a franchise, and will at once take steps to establish a telephone exchange. The rates for telephone service are $26 for business telephones and $25 for residences. No limit is placed as to distance, and the rate is the same to all places within the city limits. Citizens of Irvington are inclined to encourage the new company, as an exchange in that suburb has been promised if enough subscribers can be secured.

The Central Union Telephone Company denies that it is writing any contract for service with a view of hindering the work of the new company. Superintendent J. M. Baker says that all new contracts are for one year. After that no contracts are taken, the old contract being renewable quarterly. The Central Union charges $48 for business telephones and $36 for residence telephones within one mile from the exchange. The rate increases up to two miles at the rate of $6 a quarter mile. Beyond two miles special rates are made. Mr. Baker says: "The present service is cheaper in Indianapolis than in any other city of its size in the country. Besides the service is as good as any service and much better than that in the large cities. The rates charged is as low as is compatible with good service. I do not believe that any company can give the service which the public demands for a lower rate than we have at present."

The Contract Comes To This City. The contract for warming and ven-tilating the new high school building, at Pandora, O., was awarded to Kruse & Dewenter last Friday.

The annual pew letting of the Secon Presbyterian church will occur to-night.
